PROFESSOR OF HISTORY
RHODE ISLAND COLLEGE, USA

OCTOBER 1981

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In the creation of this Guide, I owe much to gracious assistance from many sources. Rhode Island College provided me with a research leave together with a Grant-in-Aid. Professor George Shepperson, Professor of Commonwealth and American History, in the University of Edinburgh has given continuing interest and encouragement to the project. Dr. John T. D. Hall, Keeper of Special Collections in the Edinburgh University Library, together with his splendid staff supplied willing, generous help and counsel during the months of inventorying. Dr. David Daiches, Director, and the Institute of Advanced Studies in the Humanities at the University of Edinburgh where I was a Fellow during the summer of 1981 furnished a congenial working environment. Mr. Paul Dundas, Lecturer in Sanskrit in the University of Edinburgh, very kindly undertook the identification of several pieces of Sanskrit manuscript and writing. My wife, Clarice Wagner Shinn, joined me on a daily basis in the arduous task of preparing and checking inventory cards and files as well as in proofreading the typed copy. The task could not have been completed without her generous help.

I acknowledge all this help with gratitude even as I remain responsible for the form and production of the Guide. We all know more about the collection of correspondence and papers that Berriedale Keith left, and so are better equipped to understand his life and his contributions to scholarship especially in Sanskrit and in the constitution of the British Empire.

INTRODUCTION

Arthur Berriedale Keith (1879-1944) was born in the Portobello section of Edinburgh, attended Royal High School, and held degrees from the University of Edinburgh (MA, D. Litt.) and Oxford University (AB, BCL, DCL). He was called to the bar at Inner Temple and was a member of the Faculty of Advocates in Scotland.

His career centered in two cities, Edinburgh and London. From 1901 to 1914, he served as a Second Class Clerk in the Colonial Office and, between 1903 and 1905, as Principal Secretary to the Crown Agents for the Colonies. At the close of his Colonial Office career, he served as Private Secretary to Sir John Anderson, Permanent Under Secretary of State. In December 1914, he returned to Edinburgh University as Regius Professor of Sanskrit and Comparative Philology. He held that chair together with the title added in 1927, Lecturer on the Constitution of the British Empire, until his death.

He was an authoritative scholar in the fields reflected by his titles with publications that started in 1900 resulting in more than fifty different books and with many hundred scholarly articles. He also was a public figure, active for a time in the Scottish Liberal Federation as well as with the Anti-Slavery and Aborigines Protection Society. He assisted the National Union for Civil Liberties. He served as legal counsel on numerous occasions. He was a prolific writer of letters to the Editor on current issues, on which he often took strong stands. The Times, the Manchester Guardian, the Morning Post, the Glasgow Herald, the Scotsman, the Cape Times were among the principal newspapers to which he wrote, and his letters were published, as well, in Australia, Canada, the Bahamas, India, and elsewhere.

Subsequent to his death in the fall of 1944, his sister, Mrs. Nan B. Dewar, gave two different collections of his materials to Edinburgh University Library. One collection contains about 5,000 2,500 books from his working library, for which one should consult the main catalog at Edinburgh University Library. The other collection, identified by the library as D.2605, and the subject of this Guide, consists of "Papers and Correspondence, 1896-1941."

Content of "Papers and Correspondence." This collection consists of approximately 4,800 pieces, some as brief as a note on an envelope, others running to many pages of documents or legal briefs or lengthy letters. The correspondence involves more than 700 different persons, literally all over the world. Politicians such as W. L. Mackenzie King, the seemingly continuous Prime Minister of Canada in the middle quarter of the 20th century, or Herbert Samuel, Stafford Cripps, T. W. H. Inskip, and John Simon active in the United Kingdom in the 1930s or Darrell Figgis of the Irish Free State in the 1920s or several of the governors of Australian states were all among his regular correspondents. In addition, the collection contains much material involving Keith's work as scholar in publishing books in the Harvard Oriental Series (Charles R. Lanman) and with Oxford University Press (R. W. Chapman). Many of his letters to the Editor are scattered throughout. The bulk of his correspondence with A. V. Dicey, England's leading legal authority in the 19th century, Arrangement. In the main, this collection is arranged as it came to the library from Keith's files in his house. Some files had numbers, most did not. Most of Keith's letters written to correspondents are his carbon file copy and often these are difficult to read. Generally, the files have a reverse chronology so that the earliest papers in the file are at the back and the more recent ones at the front. A few files, especially in Gen. 145, were rearranged by the library staff. Until the preparation of this Guide, no detailed inventory had been undertaken. The primary task that the library staff completed was grouping the materials into fourteen boxes and assigning the numbers, Gen. 140-153, within the numbering system appropriate to Special Collections.

Method of Inventorying. The first premise was to leave materials in the order in which they were found as being nearest to the way in which Keith would have worked with them.

The second premise was to assign a sequential arabic number to each file, thus introducing a simpler and more certain system for identifying files in each of the boxes. For example, Gen. 140/1 makes it clear that reference is to the first file in box 140. Primarily the file order is the order in which materials originally came. Only in one instance, Gen. 148, were scattered pieces grouped and consolidated to make a topical file order although, even there, an attempt was made to use the same categories indicated in the original.

The third premise was to assign a sequential arabic number to each piece in each file. Thus, it is possible to give a precise location for each item in the whole collection. For example, a letter from Keith to W. L. Mackenzie King of 30 June 1926 is located in Gen. 143/6/72, or the 72nd item in the 6th file in box 143. This premise was followed just as closely as possible so that when, as is often the case, a carbon of the letter that Keith wrote in reply will be found on the reverse of the original letter, each item is numbered separately in sequence. Further, each enclosure with correspondence was assigned a separate number in sequence. The intent was to provide maximum possibility for sorting, classifying, and grouping materials, especially in view of the varied contents of the collection.

Organization of Guide. The Guide consists of three sections. The next section provides a brief summary of the contents of each box. This is followed by an alphabetical listing of the correspondents in the collection together with an indication of the volume of the correspondence. Finally, the longest section is the inventory and file order which lists every item in the collection in numerical sequence.

Identification and Dating. In any file of correspondence and papers, problems exist with regard to identification of correspondents and to dating of documents. Frequently, a signature is illegible, an addressee is not indicated, a date is not given, or the document is too fragmentary. Internal evidence often gives a probable answer; in other cases, a check with Who's Who or Whitaker's can confirm the correspondent. Keith tended to answer his correspondence on the day it was received. Brackets are used to indicate the probable correspondent, date, or document. In all such cases, there is, of course, the likelihood of error.

SUMMARY OF CONTENTS OF THE COLLECTION

Gen. 140, Colonial Office Correspondence, 1901-1914

This box contains 4 files and 206 pieces, largely between 1901 and 1910. There are significant runs of correspondence with Sir Thomas David Gibson Carmichael, Governor of Victoria, 1908-1911, and with Gerald Strickland, Governor of Tasmania, 1904-1909, and of Western Australia, 1909-1913.

Gen. 141, Colonial Office Correspondence, 1901-1914

This box contains 5 files and 484 pieces, largely between 1910 and 1912, although File 2 contains miscellaneous CO correspondence going back to 1905. There are significant runs of correspondence continuing with Carmichael and Strickland. Other significant runs exist with R. W. Chapman of Oxford University Press, A. V. Dicey, Vinerian Professor of Law at Oxford, 1882-1909, Camille Janssen, Secretary of the Institut Colonial International in Brussels, and Sir Charles P. Lucas, an Assistant Under Secretary in the Colonial Office and head of the Dominions Department on its creation in 1908.

Gen. 142, Colonial Office Correspondence, 1901-1914

This box contains 4 files and 477 pieces, largely between 1912 and 1914. There are significant runs of correspondence continuing with Dicey, Janssen, and Strickland as Governor of New South Wales, 1913-1917. In addition, there is substantial correspondence with Ronald Munro-Ferguson (later Lord Novar), Governor-General of Australia, 1914-1920, and with Arthur L. Stanley, Governor of Victoria, 1914-1920.

Gen. 143, Correspondence about Constitutional Issues

This box contains 9 files and 511 pieces, running from 1908 to 1939. There are significant runs of correspondence continuing with Dicey, Munro-Ferguson, Stanley, and Strickland. File 5 contains material involving the Queensland tramways case (1920) in which Keith served as legal counsel for the shareholders.

Gen. 144, His Career

This box contains the diploma of membership in the American Philosophical Society, 7 files and 581 pieces. Material in File 2 contains 27 original letters of Keith to Dicey, 1911-1918. File 3 contains official material about Keith's score on the Civil Service examinations in 1901, his subsequent appointment to the Colonial Office, and his transfer to the Crown Agents for the Colonies between 1903 and 1905. Other files contain materials about his activities with the Scottish Liberal Federation, 1918-1924, his work at Edinburgh University, 1923-1929, as well as inventories and instructions for the organization of his work at his home, 4, Crawford Road, Edinburgh.

Gen. 145, Correspondence, Literary and General, 1912-1941

This box contains 4 files and 752 pieces. More correspondence with Dicey is in this box. Correspondence with certain political figures, especially during the 1930s, can be found here: R. Stafford Cripps, T. W. H. Inskip, G. LeM. Mander, Herbert Samuel, John Simon.

Gen. 146, Government of India Bill, 1931-1935, Peace Treaty, 1919

This box contains 3 files and 301 pieces. File 1 contains materials about Keith's work as counsel to the European Delegates to the Indian Round Table Conferences of the 1930s. File 2 consists of news cuttings on the peace treaty, 1919, and related matters while File 3 is entirely news cuttings on crown matters involving the abdication and coronation, 1936-1937.

Gen. 147, Malta

This box contains 2 files and 183 pieces dealing with matters affecting Malta between 1924 and 1940. Considerable correspondence with Strickland is there, especially as Keith served as legal counsel for Strickland in pleadings before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

Gen. 148, Miscellaneous Papers

This box contains 8 files and 168 pieces dealing with a wide variety of issues. Considerable material can be found in File 1 about matters in southern Africa through correspondence and news cuttings from the Union of South Africa and through Keith's association with the Anti-Slavery and Aborigines Protection Society.

Gen. 149, Beaverbrook Case

This box contains 5 files and 244 pieces, primarily from the 1930s. Several manuscripts of articles by Keith are included. File 3 contains a retyping of certain correspondence of Sir Charles Bernard and the India Office in the 1880s. File 4 contains correspondence and legal opinions in the divorce case of Janet Aitken Campbell v Ian Campbell where Keith served as legal counsel for Lord Beaverbrook's daughter. File 5 contains materials from Dicey sent to Keith in connection with his agreement to undertake subsequent revisions of Dicey's, Conflict of Laws.

Gen. 150, Ethiopia

This box contains 4 files and 150 pieces, ranging from 1919 to 1942. Significant correspondence may be found with Muriel Blundell and Sylvia Fankurst both of whom were involved, as was Keith, in criticism of British policy towards Italy after the invasion of Ethiopia.

Gen. 151, Chatham House Study; Keith Revision of Anson

This box contains 2 files and 84 pieces including some manuscript material, news cuttings of lectures by V. Gordon Childe (1935) and Sir Arthur Keith (1925) at the University of Edinburgh, reports of the Chatham House group (Royal Institute of International Affairs) "British Empire Study" on post-war colonial matters, and correspondence with R. W. Chapman over Keith's revision of W. R. Anson's, The Law and Custom of the Constitution.

Gen. 152, Oriental Papers and Correspondence

This box contains 6 files and 664 pieces, between 1901 and 1943. Significant correspondence exists with Charles R. Lanman, Professor of Sanskrit at Harvard University and editor of the Harvard Oriental Series, A. A. Macdonell, Boden Professor of Sanskrit at Oxford until his retirement in 1926, and F. W. Thomas, Librarian at the India Office and from 1926, Boden Professor of Sanskrit at Oxford.

Gen. 153, Sanskrit Books

This box contains 9 Sanskrit items, including Keith's notebook for junior Sanskrit.
